Immaculate Heart Council #3604

Grand Knight's Message

Brothers,

I would first like to thank Joey Jacobson for serving as Grand Knight this past year, as well as Les Brenner for serving as Deputy Grand Knight. Their willingness to serve and lead our council is deeply appreciated.

For those who missed the installation last month, I spoke at length about the virtue of magnanimity. St. Thomas Aquinas describes it as "reaching out for greatness." More precisely, he defines magnanimity as the virtue by which a person aspires to do great things in accordance with their worth—not out of pride, but because it is fitting to their calling. It's about doing things that matter, that challenge us, and that are worthy of the mission we've been given.

After my talk, one of our honored guests approached me and asked, "As a third-time Grand Knight, what's next?" What she meant was: are we going to try for Star Council?

One focus I want us to embrace this year is developing leaders. We need men who are willing not only to serve but also to lead. By setting the goal of earning Star Council, I believe we can inspire and develop the leadership needed to achieve it.

My goal is not to create unnecessary work, but to engage and retain our members by offering opportunities to serve in ways that are meaningful and energizing—causes that give each of us a reason to be a Knight of Columbus.

There will be more to come in the next few weeks, but I truly believe that by living our principles of charity, unity, and fraternity, our council can continue to do so much for our members, our parish, and our community.

Let's reach out for greatness.
